

The Faculty of Family Studies together with the Faculty of History and Social Sciences UKSW invite students to attend a series of monographic lectures „Rush Hour of Life” (30h).

Lectures are given by Prof. Walter Schmidt in English on the balance between professional and family life. Students can receive 6 ECTS points for their participation.

Lectures will take place on the following days, in building 23 ul. Wóycickiego:

19.10.2018 9:45-13:00

9.11.2018 9:45-13:00

14.12.2018 9:45-13:00

18.01.2019 9:45-13:00

We invite all students interested in this subject to sign up via USOS.

Prof. Walter Schmidt is employed as a lecturer at the Faculty of Family Studies at UKSW where he manages the Centre for Research on Work and Family Balance. Prof. Schmidt obtained a PhD in economy at the University of Vienna and a PhD in philosophy at the University of Eichstätt-Ingolstadt. He published the book „Rush Hour of life”, in which he introduced ways to solve current conflicts between professional and family life. Prof. Schmidt carries out research on the development of management staff. For many years, he was holding top manager positions in marketing and sales in well-known international companies. In 1987 he started InterMedia, an international company which deals with personal counseling in management and executive search. In 1993 he co-founded SearchNet International, a global network of executive search companies. Prof. Schmidt is also actively engaged in the work of many entrepreneurial organizations and social institutions. He gives lectures in education, training and designing life-careers of female and male managers.